From the Pastor's Desk.....

Today is the Third Sunday in Ordinary Time and our passage from Isaiah includes the end of one chapter and the beginning of another; and there is a clear shift in focus. It dates to about 721 BC just before the northern kingdom of Israel (also called Ephraim) falls to Assyria. The land belonging to the tribes of Zebulun and Naphtali, the northernmost part of Israel, was the first area seized by the Assyrians. This area was inhabited by a significant number of non-Israelites, considered pagans. But the prophet expresses hope for the future in beautiful poetic images of light and joy. In the verse that follows today's reading, Isaiah described a future king of Judah who will never waver in his reliance on God. He will be a true son of David, completely reliant on God rather than foreign powers. When such a king appears, darkness will give way to divine light, the gloom of foreign oppression to the joy of freedom that only God can bring. He is so confident of this that he speaks as if it has already happened.

Paul established the church in Corinth about 15 years prior to writing this letter. He has received reports of factionalism, openly immoral behavior and aberrations, even in the celebration of the Lord's Supper. It seems that some of the people have aligned themselves with a particular teacher or preacher but Paul insists that Christians belong to no one but Christ.

In today's gospel, Matthew introduces some of the challenges facing the early church. The Jewish element had a great difficulty in letting go of the rules and laws while a growing element of the early church are Gentiles who have no interest in these things. Prior to this passage, John called the people to repentance; Jesus will do the same but addresses his words whom many Jews consider outside of God's plan of salvation. Quoting Isaiah, MT notes that Jesus takes up residence in the part of Galilee known for its large Gentile population. Without asking their conversion to Judaism, Jesus announces that "the kingdom of heaven is at hand." MT has Jesus bring the law and prophets to fulfillment by not only including Gentiles, but by proclaiming the kingdom to them before approaching his fellow Jews. Then MT turns to Jesus approaching the fishermen. This is unheard of: a rabbi never approached students; they always approached him. MT is presenting Jesus as reinterpreting the teachings of Judaism.

Father Peter Cauley, who built St. Patrick's Church, had a great love for angels. I recently tried to count all of the angels in church and I came up with 61 of them! Some are relatively hidden and difficult to find but they're there. Sometime (not during Mass or the homily!!) see if you can find them.

Pope Francis recently made two interesting statements: "Women are more important in the church than bishops and priests." "I have a dogmatic certainty: God is in every person's life. God is in everyone's life. Even if the life of a person has been a disaster, even if it is destroyed by vices, drugs or anything else—God is in this person's life."

Our Homeless Shelter week will be here before we know it. Chairperson Angie Kontur already has dinners and breakfasts covered, has all of the volunteers that she needs, etc. What we are in need of now are contributions to help with the cost of the week. It costs us approximately $6,000 to host the week. We're very fortunate that our neighbors at the Russian Church of the Nativity allow us the use of their Social Center to host the Shelter. Just the utilities alone for the week cost a thousand dollars. There are envelopes at the entrance to church if you would like to help with this project. I continue to marvel at how generous you are with the poor & needy.

We have all of the evening dinners covered as well as a light breakfast for guests. Once they wake up in the morning, they can go to the Upper Room at 10th & Peach for the Bishop's Breakfast. This daily meal is funded through Catholic Charities and the monies come from what you donate each year in the Catholic Service Appeal.

Each parish in the diocese is required to form a Transition Team for Pastoral Planning whose purpose is to assure that the parish continues with the process whether it be a stand-alone parish (St. Patrick) or a merged parish (St. Hedwig.) The members of the St. Hedwig Team are Tom Kurpiewski, Judy Pentz and Mary Jo Sulecki. The members of the St. Patrick team are Forrest Mischler, Mary Pat Schlaudecker and Dennis Michalski.

A large number of our priests received new assignments this past week in conjunction with the reorganization of parishes which is underway in the diocese.

I will offer two Scripture classes during Lent this year. The first will be on Thursday, March 9, and again on Thursday, March 16 with class both at 10 AM and 6 PM. This year we'll explore the Infancy Narratives, the stories of the birth of Christ, as found only in Luke & Matthew.

A few minutes before the church services began, people were sitting in their pews talking. Suddenly Satan appeared at the front of the church. Everyone started screaming and running for the front entrance, trampling each other in a frantic effort to get away. Soon there was only one elderly man sitting calmly in his pew. Satan walked up to him and asked, "Do you know who I am?" The old man replied, "Yup. Sure do." "Aren't you afraid of me?" asked Satan. "Nope," he replied. "Don't you realize I can kill you with one word?" asked Satan. "Don't doubt it for a minute," the old man replied. "Don't you know I can cause you profound agony for all eternity?" persisted Satan. "Yes," was the calm reply. "And you're still not afraid?" asked Satan. "Nope," came the reply. More than a little perturbed, Satan asked, "Why aren't you afraid of me?" The old man calmly replied, "Been married to your sister for 48 years."

A Family Perspective—

Third Sunday

When Jesus called his disciples, they came "immediately." Parents wish their children would respond as quickly, but they don't. Children grow slowly into responsibility. It is a process like walking, not done "immediately", but in small steps. Parenting demands patient encouragement.

MARRIAGE MOMENTS

St. Paul urged the Corinthians to “be united in the same mind and in the same purpose.” (1 Cor.1:10). Marriages can survive many differences of opinion as long as you hold basic values in common. What heartfelt values do you share?

236 DAYS TO THE 2017 ERIE IRISH FESTIVAL

Only 236 days! How will we ever get ready in time?

That's a very good question. Thank you for asking. Here's the plan:

Last year we introduced you to all of the fantastic people who work so hard to put the festival together. They are already hard at work to ensure that this year's festival will be bigger, better, tastier, classier, and more exciting than ever. This year, we're going to focus on getting the rest of you involved. We're going to turn this little column into the want ads. We'll give you the job descriptions for every position we need filled and we'll ask for a pledge of your time to fill it. And we know you'll respond and we know you will love working the festival—it is flat out fun! Ask anyone who's done it. Flat out fun.

Last year you all came through with donations of jewelry and whiskey and Irish-themed decorations. We're going to give you the opportunity to continue with all of that. Your donations make a difference—a big difference. The jewelry and purse sales and the whiskey bar had their biggest year ever and we used every single decoration that was donated by those savvy shoppers who comb through all of the dollar and discount stores and buy up all of the stuff that's on sale after St. Patrick's day. We wouldn't want to take all of that pleasure away from you. We'll tell you what we need—give you a wish list—and you eagle-eyed bargain hunters can run wild over the city and share your great finds with the whole parish.

Last year you sold raffle tickets—man, did you sell raffle tickets! Twice as many as the year before—twice as many! Ten thousand dollars worth just by parishioners! You are awesome, give yourselves a pat on the back. And a parishioner sold the winning ticket! This year we want to double that again. So practice your sales pitch.

Last year you came and ate the great new food, drank the great beers, tasted the great whiskeys, sipped the great Irish coffees, played the great games, brought your kids to the great leprechaun village, listened to the great music, and bought the great stuff our vendors had for sale. And that was...well, great. So let's do all of that great stuff again (Without the rain please! Start praying now.) This year we're kicking that all up another notch and working on the logistics so everyone can eat, drink, and be Irish without waiting in line for an hour (Even though that food was worth the wait—how about that Guinness Cheese Sauce on everything—or the fish and chips—we're definitely doing more of that this year). So do not make plans for the weekend of September 15 to 17 that do not include spending every minute at the 2017 Erie Irish Festival.
