From the Pastor's Desk...

Today is Easter Sunday and our first reading from the Acts of the Apostles is taken from Peter's sermon given at the house of the Gentile Cornelius. It is the fifth of six speeches that Peter gives in Acts, all of which lay out the whole theology of Christ's life. The first of the speeches is given on Pentecost to a Jewish audience. It is amazing to see the transformation of Peter from the pre-resurrection bumbling, denying Christ, etc. man to this totally transformed man of faith. Unfortunately, the reading omits the opening line of Peter's speech to the Gentiles in which he says, "I see that God shows no partiality. Rather, in every nation whoever fears him and acts uprightly is acceptable to him." From the very beginning, Gentiles were included in the early church.

Our brief second reading looks at the implications of being raised with Christ. Although belief in a future resurrection after death is part of Christian faith, the focus in this reading is not on future resurrection, but on death and resurrection that has already happened in the life of believers. Those who have been baptized into Christ have already died and risen with him. Paul speaks of Christ "above," risen and ascended and that the baptized should think of what is above. It is not a momentary thought but indicates a continuous, on-going way of life. This reading provides the theological underpinning for the kind of life that the baptized are to lead and because of living that way, they live in hope that they will ultimately appear with him in glory.

When Mary comes to the tomb early on Easter morning, she is certainly not expecting his being raised from the dead. Jews of that time believed in resurrection at the last day, a belief that was affirmed by Martha when her brother Lazarus died. When she sees the stone rolled back, she runs to Peter. Note that when Peter and John arrive at the tomb, John waits and allows Peter to enter first, the earliest sign of Peter's superiority over the apostles. When Lazarus had been raised a few days earlier, you might recall he emerged from the tomb still wrapped in the burial linens. Jesus' resurrection is all together different. Even the trappings of death are left behind. We are told that the Beloved Disciple "saw and believed," but believing is not the same as understanding because we are told that they still did not understand what had happened. That will only come as the Risen Christ teaches them.

The Parish Office will be closed tomorrow (Easter Monday) and reopen on Tuesday at 8:30 AM.

The parish is grateful to Myron and Marlene Jones for a very generous gift to us donated through the estate of the late Lawrence Jones, Myron's brother. I am going to meet with the Finance Council and ask them to put this money into the St. Patrick Foundation. That foundation is invested in the Catholic Foundation and exists solely for the maintenance and upkeep of St. Patrick's Church. None of the money in that trust can be used for ordinary expenses, etc.

The Redemptorist priests have staffed the famed Basilica of Sainte-Anne-de-Beaupre in Quebec since 1872. That church receives over a million visitors and pilgrims a year, and the priests hear confessions, celebrate Mass, etc. The shrine was founded in 1658 about twenty minutes outside of Quebec City. Today there are only ten priests left and their median age is 80, and they recently announced that they are leaving. They also announced that they are closing the adjacent St. Alphonse Seminary, the student hostel, the former convent and the Sainte-Anne Museum.

The Diocese of Trier, Germany, located on Germany's west border with France, Luxembourg and Belgium, announced last week that it is downsizing from 172 parishes to 35!!!! The new parishes will be led by a multi-skilled team which will free priests up from any of the administrative burdens of running a parish. I can't imagine how you get interpersonal interaction in parishes that large. I've been in the cathedral at Trier and it is an incredible building. It is also the oldest church in Germany with part of it having been constructed by the Emperor Constantine.

Cardinal Blasé Cupich, Archbishop of Chicago, recently gave the address at the University of Cambridge in which he said that Amoris Laetitia is "nothing short of revolutionary." He notes that it says that the church has fallen short in relating to families and that now we not only teach but we listen to families. The document "involves creating a culture of care, hospitality and tenderness...on behalf of those who have been wounded." He said that dealing with divorced and remarried, according to the document, does not mean a general ruling for everyone, but getting to know a couple, walking with them. The document presupposes "that whenever a family strives to live together and love one another, the Spirit is already among them. "All of this represents an enormous change of approach, a paradigm shift holistically rooted in Scripture, tradition and human experience."

The 2018 Catholic Services Appeal is currently underway in our diocese. This appeal raises the monies for Catholic Charities, etc. and is the largest annual appeal in our diocese. Each parish is assessed a set amount and any monies raised above that remain in the parish. Our assessment this year is $84,000 and we're hoping to raise enough additional money to replace the tile in the vestibule and back of church. All I ask is that each of you think about donating something. Some of you cannot do anything, and that is perfectly fine. Others are able to help. Simply do what you think you can do and we'll meet our goal.

This week we will host the first of several dinners for our bridal couples. You may recall, we invite all of the couples to the rectory for a relaxing evening of drinks and dinner. It's an opportunity for me to get to know them a bit better rather than just standing before them as a stranger on their wedding day. It's also an opportunity for the parish to welcome them, some of whom are not necessarily attending Mass at this point in their lives and others of whom are not even Catholic. Over half of our weddings this year are couples living out of town, so we don't have as many coming.

An old man thought his wife was going deaf, so he came up behind her and said, "Can you hear me, sweetheart?" No reply. He came closer and said it again. No reply. He spoke right into her ear and said, "Can you hear me now, honey?" His wife said, "For the third time, yes."

A Family Perspective

That first Easter morning was confusing. Jesus was missing and Mary Magdalene, Peter and John "did not know" what to do. In family life there are confusing moments when "we don't know" what to do. Like the apostles we are Easter people when we believe and trust in each other even when all seems lost.

Defining Hope is a documentary film that weaves together the stories of persons with life-threatening illness, and the nurses who guide them, as they make choices about how they want to live, how much medical technology they can accept, and what they hope for. The film offers an inspiring message about bringing back power to the patient and helping people understand that they have choices when confronting life threatening illness and deciding on care.
