From the Pastor's Desk...

Today is the Feast of Corpus Christi (the Body and Blood of Christ.) In our first reading, we hear of the Sinai covenant.

“All that the Lord has said, we will heed and do.” Shortly after, Moses and a group of elders ascend the mountain to conclude the covenant with God, and upon seeing him, “they are and drank.” That banquet expresses the bond of will and obedience between God and Israel. It is a Eucharistic scene. The heart of the Eucharist is the sharing in the mystery of Christ’s passion, death and resurrection. The paschal lamb is the sacrament of the old covenant, symbol of God’s choice of the people Israel. Just as blood and a meal sealed the old covenant, the blood of the perfect victim, Jesus, poured out on the cross, will seal the new covenant.

Next our attention shifts to a heavenly sanctuary, where Christ as high priest performs an acts that repeats and perfects the annual Jewish ritual of atonement. The first covenant between God and his people, is full consummated when Christ, the definitive mediator, appears before the Father “with his own blood,” expiates the infidelities of the covenant people and “through the eternal Spirit,” offers himself to God as a sacrifice thus obtaining eternal redemption. The author of Hebrews shows that Jesus is the only High Priest who offers a definitive sacrifice that opens the way to God, and the sacrifice is his very self. The “tabernacle not made of human hands,” is nothing less than the body of Jesus.

Jesus’ last supper is a Passover meal by which he united his followers with the passion and death for the redemption of the world. The covenant he sealed with his blood refers to the rite of Exodus 24: 4-8. When they drink from the cup, the disciples share in all the benefits of the sacrifice and take their place as members of God’s new covenant community. We were all condemned, and he who came to be one of us offered himself as a victim for our rescue. We were starving and he gave us his body as food; thirsty and he gave us his blood.

In an unprecedented and historic move, Pope Francis has appointed three women as consultants to the Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith. Two of the women are Italian (both theologians and faculty members at Catholic universities) and a Belgian, a lecturer at a Parish university. This is the first time that non-clerics have been named as consultors to the most important office in the Vatican. Pope Francis also broke with tradition in 2017 when he named two women, for the first time, as consultors to the Congregation for Divine Worship.

I saw a cartoon recently with a picture of Pope Francis with a caption, "If you think Pope Francis is liberal, wait until you meet Jesus."

The ordination class of 2018 in the United States totaled 430 new priests, a lower number than the 590 of 2017. Twenty-five percent of the newly ordained are foreign born with the majority coming from Mexico, Vietnam, the Philippines and Columbia. Since 1999, an average of 30% of each year's ordination class have been foreign born. One half of the ordination class said they were discouraged from considering priesthood by one or more persons. Most often, this person was a friend or classmate or a family member other than parents.

In a recent homily to the group of cardinals who regularly advise him, Pope Francis warned against the risk of "rigidity," "which leads to placing oneself at the center and thus remain untouched before the works of the Holy Spirit and insensitive to new things." These doctors of the law, he said, "are incapable of discerning the signs of the times. They are slaves of words and ideas. They keep going back to the same questions, they are incapable of leaving that closed world, they are prisoners of ideas. They received a law that was life but they distilled it, they transformed it into ideology and thus they toss and turn it and are unable to move beyond. Anything new for them is a threat." He noted that in human history there have always been and always will be resistance to the Holy Spirit. But the Christian must tune in to a different frequency because God "always comes to meet us with something new and original."

The Men's Room in church is closed until June 8 for renovation. There is an additional rest room behind the main altar. Enter through the weekday chapel (door at far left of altar) and walk in the corridor behind the altar. The work on the restroom should be finished later this week.

We are in the process of securing bids to replace the tile in the vestibule and the back of church as well as to carpet the balcony. As I mentioned earlier, we're going to wait with these two projects until after the pipe organ is completed. They have to bring in some heavy equipment to lift some of the pipes and the console up to the balcony and we don't want that equipment on the new tile. We will also encounter a great deal of dirt in taking up the present tile and taking out the 50 year old carpet in the balcony. Once that is done, we'll give the church a good thorough cleaning. We have a small team who clean the Stations, something which took training as they are so delicate.

I'm grateful to a parishioner who donated the cost of our installing an in-ground sprinkler system on the church and rectory lawns.

Sometime drive by a see the new apartment buildings that Erie Insurance is building at the corner of East Fifth and German Sts. They have also purchased two one hundred year old wooden houses, completely dismantled them and are re-installing them on East Fifth Street between German and Holland Sts.

Eric Albright continues to pull things together for our September Irish Festival. Gary and Becky Johnson, who chaired the festival the past two years, are helping him learn the ropes and get things in place. We've already secured a grant from the Gaming Authority to help with our expenses, the Baked Good Booth people are already baking bread, the Jewelry Booth people have an entire room on the rectory second floor full of jewelry, etc.

A man has six items in his bathroom: toothbrush and toothpaste, shaving cream, razor, a bar of soap and a towel. The average number of items in the typical woman's bathroom is 337. A man would not be able to identify more than 20 of these items.

A Family Perspective—

One gets the impression there was always a lot of sharing discussion and learning during the many meals Jesus and the disciples ate together. How does this compare to the meals in your home? Today's gospel challenges us to make our meals more than physical functions and more a time for sharing.

Dear Parishioner—

Sunday, June 17th, is Father's Day, a day set aside to particularly remember these wonderful men who not only gave us life but nurtured and nourished us as well.

In many instances, your father has already gone to his eternal reward and you have no way of once again telling him of your love for him.

Our bulletin on June 16th & 17th will include an insert listing the names of any living or deceased father or grandfather whom you wish particularly remembered in our Masses that weekend.

If you would like to include someone in that list, please return this listing NO LATER THAN MONDAY, JUNE 11th, so that we can include these names in that bulletin.

Thanking you, I am

Sincerely,

Mssgr. Henry Kriegel
