From the Pastor's Desk...

Today is the Feast of the Holy Trinity. The voice we hear in our first reading is Wisdom, personified as a woman. She presents herself as the first of God's creations. Once she came into being, she worked alongside God as a coworker in creation. After today's reading, she advises her audience to listen to her assuring them that the one who finds her finds life, a teaching that is often associated with the Torah. The ancient Jewish interpretation sees Wisdom identified with the Torah that was present with God even before the creation of the earth. In the New Testament, Paul sees Jesus as the very presence of God's wisdom.

"We have been justified by faith," Paul's opening words affirm that we have already been justified, already brought into right relationship with God. Justification and the other effects of Christ's death and resurrection are both a present and future reality. In the present, we have peace with God through Christ, through whom we have access to the grace in which we stand. At the same time, we boast in hope of the glory of God, focusing on the future. While boasting ordinarily stems from one's own actions, the boasting here is based on God's saving actions through Christ and the power of the Spirit. Even suffering is reason for boasting. For Paul, suffering leads to character and ultimately to hope. The most palpable gift and reason for hope is that the love of God has already been poured into our hearts through the Holy Spirit. That Spirit is God's abiding presence, constantly breathing within us, bestowing God's love and empowering us to love in return.

In his farewell address, Jesus speaks to his friends, aware of their troubled hearts. Though he still had more to say to them, he knew well how much they could bear. To reveal too much too soon would be a burden too weighty for them to carry, leading to confusion and doubt. Instead of doing that, he assures them that the Holy Spirit will teach them everything and remind them of all he had told them. Like Jesus, the Spirit will come from the Father and will continue to teach what Jesus himself had taught.

This weekend we observe Father's Day and we send best wishes to all fathers and grandfathers in the parish. Today's bulletin contains a list of names of fathers, both living and deceased, whom you wish particularly remembered in our Masses this weekend.

This year 481 men were ordained to priesthood in the United States (one-tenth the number who were ordained fifty years ago). The average man being ordained this year is 33 years old, which is slightly younger than the previous two classes of incoming priests. He was born in the United States, got his college degree and worked full time before entering the seminary, and he was baptized Catholic as an infant. They share a general feeling that God has called them to help heal a church broken by abuse.

In 1909, the U. S. Catholic population was 14.3 million. Today it is 68.5 million. In 1909, the average family in New York City spend $907 a month, including $15 for rent, $132 for clothes and $405 for food. During that same year, the port of New York admitted 290,618 immigrants in for the first four months of the year alone. And, finally, the 115th Congress of the United States convened in 2017 with a record number of Catholic members: 24 senators and 169 representatives.

The site of a former church in New York City has been transformed into affordable housing units, and the Archdiocese of New York plans to develop 2,000 affordable units over the next decade. The units opened this year contain 112 units of affordable housing, including 77 designated for families. The other 35 studio units have been designated for people with chronic mental illness. Residents will receive on-site services from Catholic Charities' Beacon of Hope House, which provides programming for people with mental illness. New York has a pressing need for additional affordable housing, with approximately 700 people currently applying for each available unit. In 2017, about 60,000 New Yorkers were living in homeless shelters, even as the state's unemployment rate dropped.

I recently had an opening on the Parish Finance Council as member Jeff Pinto and his wife are moving to Florida. I'm thrilled that Jim Rutkowski has agreed to serve on the Council. Council members are Gary Johnson, chair; Mary Pat Schlaudecker and Dario Cipriani.

Industrial Sales and Manufacturing, which is owned by Jim Rutkowski and his father, is currently making us a large number of Christmas tree ornaments that will be an outline of the church. They will be available at this year's Irish Festival. The ornaments will be an outline of St. Patrick's Church. In addition, he is donating a large number of bottle openers which are in the shape of Presque Isle.

Bishop Persico has asked me to hold St. Patrick's Church available for May 29, 2020 so that ordinations to the priesthood might take place here. As you know, the cathedral is undergoing massive restoration (every square inch of plaster has to be replaced because paint will no longer stick to it.) They are hopeful that the work will be done in time for ordinations, but if not, the bishop would like the ordinations to take place here. That would be a major privilege for the parish. We do not have anyone being ordained from the diocese this year, but we have two men to be ordained in 2020.

We have been looking for several new chairpersons for the Irish Festival, and I'm amazed at how many people have stepped forward and volunteered. We have new chairs for Dessert, Volunteers and Food.

Only a golfer would understand this one. A man and his wife walk into a dentist's office. The man said to the dentist, "Doc, I'm in one heck of a hurry. I have two buddies sitting out in my car waiting for us to go play golf, so forget about the anesthetic, I have time for the gums to get numb. I just want you to pull the tooth, and be done with it. We have a 10 AM tee time at the best golf course in town and it's 9:30 already. I don't have time to wait for the anesthetic to work" The dentist thought to himself, "This is surely a very brave man asking to have his tooth pulled without using anything to kill the pain." So the dentist asks him, "Which tooth is it, sir?" The man turned to his wife and said, "Open your mouth honey, and show him."

89 DAYS TO THE 2019 ERIE IRISH FESTIVAL

FATHER MACHREE?

Up until the 20th century, Father's Day was a uniquely Catholic celebration, brought to the new world by the Spanish and Portuguese, who celebrated on March 19, the Feast Day of St. Joseph. The movement to make Father's Day an actual holiday in the U.S. began around 1910 in Spokane Washington when the Presbyterian daughter of a civil war veteran—a widower who had raised 6 children on his own—talked the local clergymen into giving sermons honoring fathers, as they did every year honoring mothers on the already well established Mother's Day. Originally, the young woman proposed the celebration be on her father's birthday, June 5th, but the clergymen needed more time to prepare and moved the date to the third Sunday in June, where it sits to this day. Despite great support by the men's clothing industry, who stood to sell a great deal of ties and socks, Father's Day did not actually become a national holiday until Richard Nixon signed it into law in 1972.

Father's Day is one tradition that the Irish got from us. In Ireland, Father's Day is celebrated much as it is here and on the same date. There seem to be few songs about Irish fathers and they are often painted in literature and film as heavy handed and heavy drinking, but one of the most popular poems in Ireland is about a man mourning his father's death. "Father and Son" by F.R. Higgins is much too long to print here, but here is a sample:

For that proud, wayward man now my heart breaks—
Breaks for that man whose mind was a secret eyrie,
Whose kind hand was sole signet of his race,
Who curbed me, scorned my green ways, yet increasingly loved me
Till Death drew its grey blind down his face.

If your father is still with you, what better way to thank him than to bring him to the 2019 Erie Irish Festival. If he is gone, what better way to remember him than to drink a pint at the festival in his honor—or better still, sponsor one of our bands in his name.

Happy Father's Day.
